

Make Intelligence-led Decisions. Faster

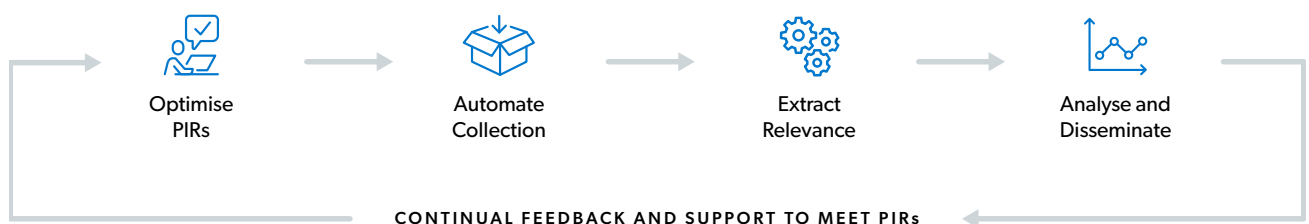

Streamline the intelligence process with Silobreaker, a single, customisable platform that collects, processes and analyses cyber, physical and geopolitical threat data to meet your priority intelligence requirements. With Silobreaker, you gain immediate insights into your top threats, with the context and integrated dissemination tools you need to make faster decisions and mitigate risks to your brand, technology, assets and supply chain.

Rethink the intelligence cycle

Identifying how threats can impact your organisation calls for the right intelligence requirements, data, analysis, reporting and support. Silobreaker offers a comprehensive solution that combines the collection, processing and analysis of data in a single platform with collaborative dissemination tools that support your intelligence cycle workflow to meet priority intelligence requirements (PIRs).

We begin by identifying your PIRs, and then collaborate with you to optimise them before proceeding to automate data collection across millions of curated sources. Our award-winning technology processes the data at scale to minimise false positives and extract contextually relevant insights for you. This means you and your team can focus on interpreting and analysing the results in customisable dashboards and visualisations and importantly, push your intelligence to stakeholders faster - straight from the platform.
