Automate data collection, accelerate intelligence analysis and bring reporting and dissemination together in a single workflow. Silobreaker enables organisations to meet more priority intelligence requirements with a single tool, streamlining operational costs and improving decision-making with relevant, actionable intelligence.

Deliver confident intelligence from the full data set

Protect your organisation's operations and gain visibility into geopolitical and cyber threat activity, espionage, warzones, international trade, supply chains, sanctions and economic policies. Whatever your needs, Silobreaker experts are there to support you and ensure all stakeholder priority intelligence requirements (PIRs) are addressed.

Based on PIRs, Silobreaker's Intelligence Hub automatically selects, collects and aggregates relevant information sources on a huge scale. From news sites, blogs and government advisories to finished intelligence reports and deep and dark web sites, the Silobreaker Intelligence Hub automatically collects millions of sources of unstructured and structured data to create a single view of security risk.

Confidently guide risk management decisions

Silobreaker's AI-powered Relevance Engine helps you keep up with events that impact your safety and security. Always running in the background, the Relevance Engine begins by automatically translating, processing, deduplicating and clustering the huge volume of data as it's collected by the Silobreaker Intelligence Hub.

Silobreaker's Relevance Engine automatically analyses these sources in milliseconds, with unique multilingual entity detection to identify any mention of the organisations, key personnel, assets and locations you protect. The engine maps the relationship of these mentions to the topical events, threats and vulnerabilities impacting your operations – including foreign policy changes, elections, military activity, sanctions, related cyberattacks and any other threats your organisation monitors to guide risk management decisions.
